Isolators with robotics improve productivity

SKAN Isolators with Integrated Robots Reduce Labor and Risk

- SKAN offers a very wide range of products for aseptic and aseptic-toxic processes. The process applications for isolators with fast and efficient decontamination systems are very diverse. Our experience ranges from classic isolators for sterility tests to systems for small scale fillings to customer-specific large systems for commercial production. Special applications with integrated robot systems are also our strength. We serve the entire life cycle from engineering to installation, commissioning, qualification, validation and global service.
